

Yoimoji of the Week

Jambop the Brave Raccoon

Joseph W was brave observing minibeasts up close, even though he was not sure about doing this at first.

Mary-Ellen has been very determined and brave this week with independent walking

Julia was brave taking on a main part in drama.

Kacey was super brave, for the first-time during bucket time, she independently waited for her turn, participated beautifully, and returned to her chair.

Thurston was brave this week in a senseology session. Initially, he did not want to touch the 'worms', but was brave and gave it a go regardless!

Katie has been very brave this week, planning and delivering her own Bucket style session for her friends with lots of confidence!

Roy have the brave award for doing our whole dance routine in drama today and trying some vegetable curry on cooking! Two things he usually refuses!

Skye has been brave when exploring the classroom this week.

Jamie was brave when he twisted his ankle and carefully carried on with his day and kept smiling.

Emily was brave when she had a nosebleed.

Jambop is brave.

I like to try new things. Even if it feels scary or different, I always have a go and do my best.
